

Long, long ago, in a far away land that you probably won't have heard of called Turnip Land, I was planted with my twenty-one other siblings. By the way I am a turnip.

In the garden that I was planted in, a gardener came out to water us. When he went back into his cottage I started to grow. "Help I'm growing, are you?" I shouted. No answer. My brothers and sisters didn't notice a big purple ball taking up all their space (that ball was me)

When the very unobservant gardener looked out of the window, he screamed,

"A A R R G G H H!!" He ran out of the door and started to pull. I was about to help him pull but then I realised he was pulling me. He was pulling with all his might and going red in the face. I was going to scream but then he knew I was alive. I've nearly made two mistakes in two minutes (about to help him pull and going to scream.) Speaking of screaming I think the gardener just screamed as loud as a lion.

Soon his wife came out and helped pull. At this point in the story you should be feeling very sorry for me, if you don't, don't bother reading this. I think they pulled me out a bit but not much. A nosy little looked at me with astonishment and then came to help. His sister found him and came to help too!

A fluffy dog and small cat were playing and the dog saw his favourite food in the girl's pocket. He accidentally helped pull and then the cat grabbed the dog.

Pull! Woof! Meow! They all shouted. I don't get

Why they want me.

Just then, a little mouse grabbed the cat's tail
as if that would help, I thought.

"It won't budge, help," the children shouted together. I hope they're not calling me fat. Just as I was thinking what I would do if they were calling me fat, I popped out of the ground.

They threw a party and people from all over Turnip & came and exclaimed,

"That was the finest Turnip I have ever tasted!"

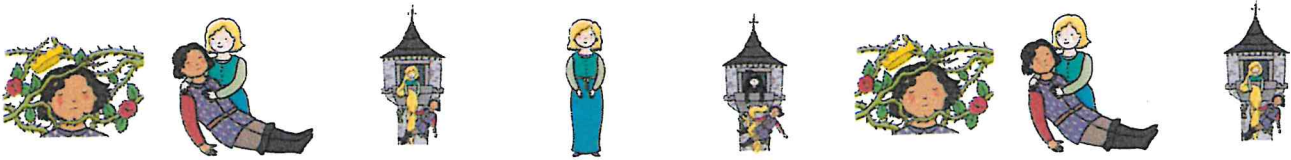

Some people stayed over night and had me for Breakfast, brunch, lunch, dinner and supper.

They kept coming back for seconds and thirds.

Soon, they got full and I felt quite warm in their tummies. I and everyone that ate me lived happily ever after.

Rapunzel

Many many years ago in a large kingdom far far away from the forest. There was a large large palace which was surrounded by a small little village with lots of lovely children.

There was a witch only on the other side of the land named Mother Gothel. She was old and her skin was so wrinkly and her hair so white. She lived in a tall tall palace which is me!

One day on a dark and stormy night vicious night.

Mother Gothel decided to go to the palace and steal the golden flower back. My walls were made of gold with flowers colored with brighter gold on top and the floor was colored with lilac.

Mother Gothel was so astonished she could not move at all. She had just remembered what she had to do. So she blinked one more time and got on.

Mother Gothel couldn't find the flower anywhere. But she found the baby and then she started to sing under her breath. Suddenly the baby's hair started to glow. Then she saw it was in her hair so she had to steal her hair as well. She took the baby out of the cot but she did not that the cot was old so it made a big noise "kreeeeek!" The king and queen were making up so she quickly grabbed the the baby and ran to the balcony and checked that the rope was there. It was, so she grabbed the rope and jumped over and down.

Once upon a time long ago far away, there ~~lived~~ lived three three pigs-I was the youngest.

One day I found a place to move to with my brothers. we ~~bit~~ built houses I built mine out of straw my two brothers built their houses of sticks and bricks.

One day when I was having tea,
 there was a knock at the door.
 "Let me in!" so I shouted a loud, scary wolf so the wolf blew my house down. I ran to my brother's house and we barricaded ourselves in. The wolf went away.

The next day when I was having lunch with my ~~at~~ brother the wolf came to the ~~two~~ houses and said "come out, come out little pig or I will blow it down!"

So the wolf blew the house down.
I ran with my brother.

When I got to my second brother's house the wolf tried to blow the house down but he couldn't so he climbed up to the chimney and dropped down it. When he got to the bottom he fell into a pot of belly hot water. The wolf ran off for ever.

Mother Gothel ran away through the forest and climbed up the tall tall tower. Mother Gothel sucked up a big breath and let it go in relief.

When Rapunzel was 10 years old, Mother Gothel shut her up in the tower so she could not see or meet anyone.

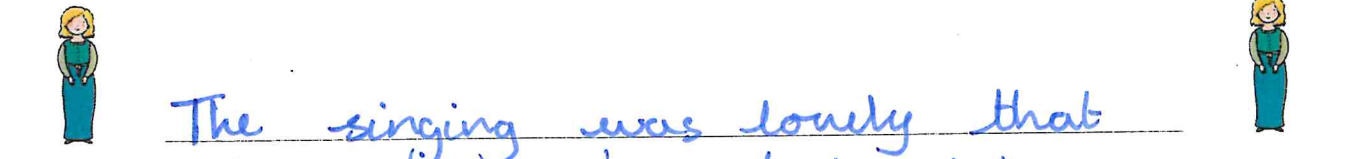

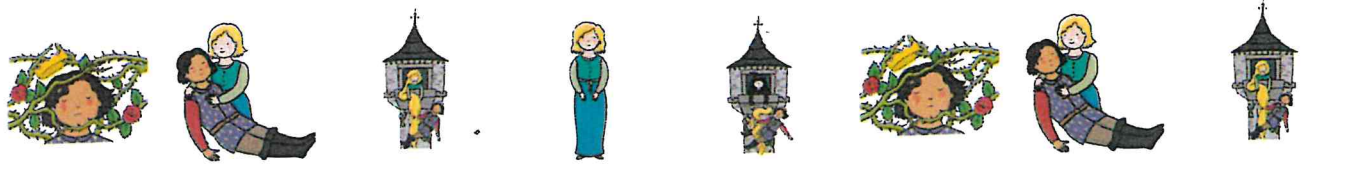

Later on, Mother Gothel quietly walked through the forest to go and get some bread. When Mother Gothel came back she shouted "Rapunzel let down your hair!" Then Rapunzel let down her hair.

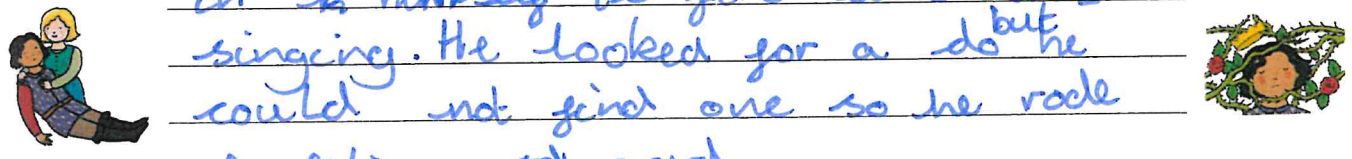

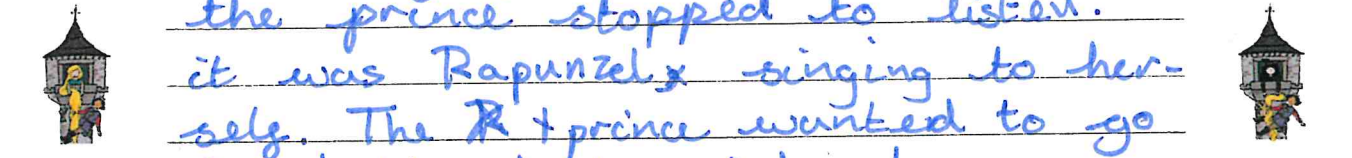

When Rapunzel had been in the tower a few years, there was a prince in the forest. As he passed by the tower, he heard a song coming from the top of the tower.

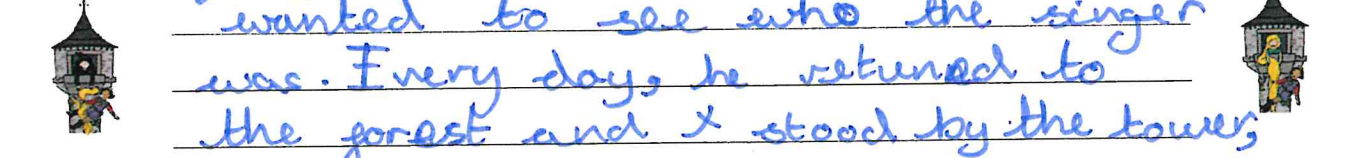

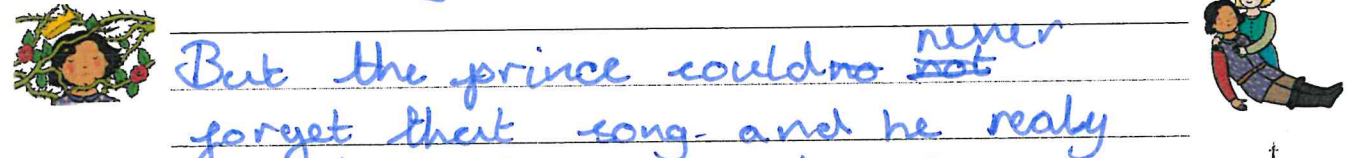

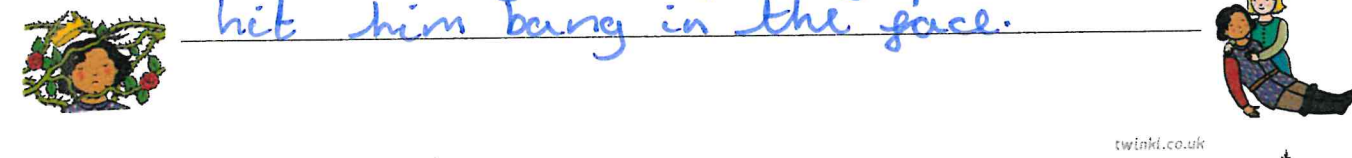

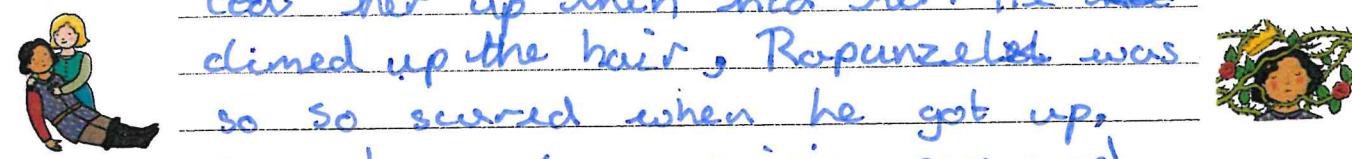

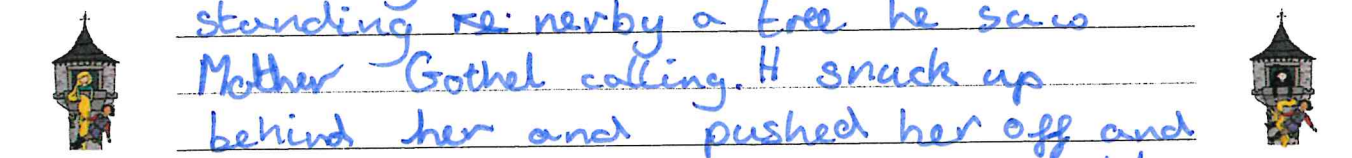

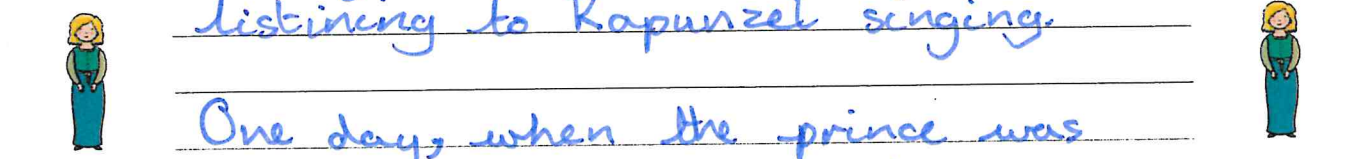

The singing was lovely that the prince stopped to listen. it was Rapunzel singing to herself. The prince wanted to go in to himself to find who was singing. He looked for a do but he could not find one so he rode of feeling sad.

But the prince could not forget that song and he really wanted to see who the singer was. Every day, he returned to the forest and stood by the tower, listening to Rapunzel singing.

One day, when the prince was standing nearby a tree he saw Mother Gothel calling. He snuck up behind her and pushed her off and took her up then hid her. He climbed up the hair, Rapunzel was so so scared when he got up, so she got a frying pan and hit him bang in the face.

Rapunzel soon let him out and at that moment he loved her but Rapunzel sort of did. But suddenly <sup>she</sup> he burst out saying "Can you take me to the Northern lights?" said Rapunzel. "Only

"Only if you let me out of this" so she she let him out.

She went to the window and let out her hair the man climbed down putting little wood poles in the old building. They both went to the harbour and traveled to the place where the Northern lights were. The prince just remembered about the missing princess and they do the Northern lights every year on her birthday. so it must be her. Then he asked "Will you marry me?"

"Ok!" said Rapunzel. The Northern lights were starting.

When the Northern lights were finished the man asked, "Do you want to see meet the king and queen?"

"Yes please."

So they were meeting the king and queen. The queen was so surprised. "Are you Rapunzel, the missing princess?" questioned the queen. "Yes" the man batted in. The queen Rapunzel hugged lightly.

So the prince and Rapunzel lived happily ever after. The End.

A long long time ago in a faraway land there was a dark, damp forest and there was a wolf me. I went to find something to eat. I searched ~~at~~ high and ~~low~~ low until I ~~to~~ gave up and went back to my lair.

One day three pigs came into the forest. The next day I went out to look for food then I saw a pig in a house so I ~~saw~~ snuck up on the little pig but as I ~~soon~~ as I was going to attack she ran into her house so I huffed and I puffed and I blew the house down. But the pig got away but I found a duck to eat.

The next day I went to see some pigs. I ~~so~~ saw a pig and a stick house. ~~So~~ Come out little pig or I'll blow the house down," I said

"Never," said the pig.

"I ~~was~~ warned ~~to~~ you," I ~~went~~ <sup>said</sup> ~~so~~

I huffed and I puffed and I blew the house down but the pig got away off again again.

Two days later I went out to find good. I found the 3rd pig was playing with a toy house so I snuck up on him. I was two metres metres away. Suddenly the pig turned around and saw me and ran into his house.

Then two more pigs came into the house
"Come out little pigs or I'll blow
the house down" I said.

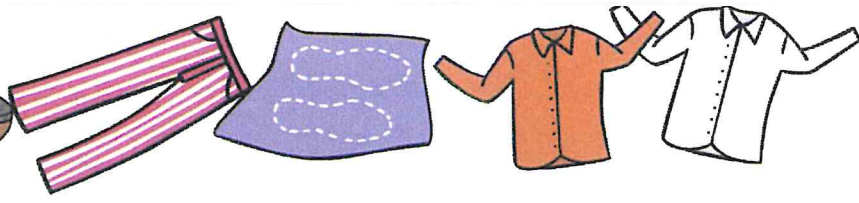

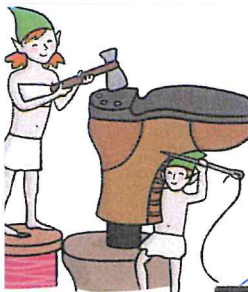

"Never!" the pigs said.

So I huffed and I puffed but as hard as I tried I just couldn't blow the house down so I gave up and went home so the pigs lived happily ever after.

Elves and the Shoe maker

Long ago in a shoe shop there lived a shoe maker and his wife. He was very poor until... they had a visit from some elves.

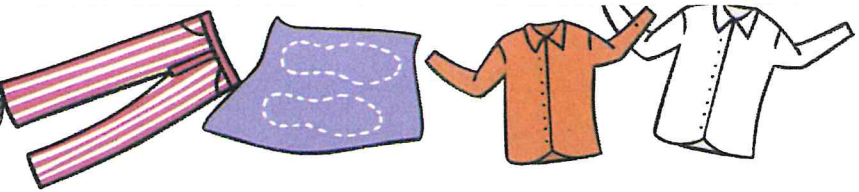

This story is about me and my brother and we ~~took a~~ made a visit to a shoe shop and it changed everything.

Now me and my brother were poor and we worked for the king and queen. We made terrible shoes

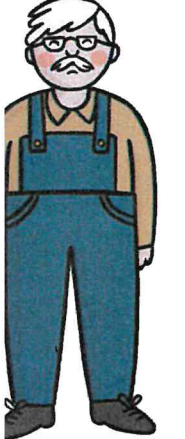

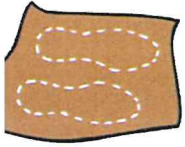

But we had no shoes and rags for clothes.

Now time for the bad news. This is the real reason we went to the shoe shop. The shoe maker was poor and his shoes weren't very good so we helped.

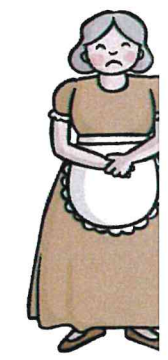

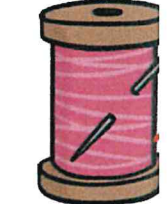

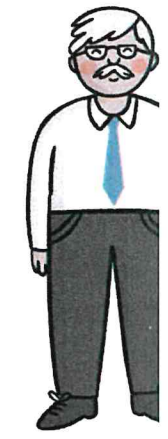

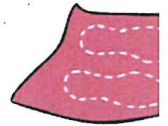

This the real Story...

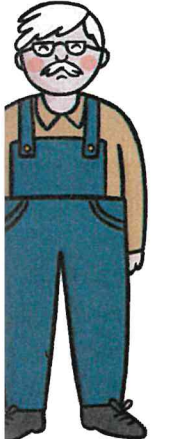

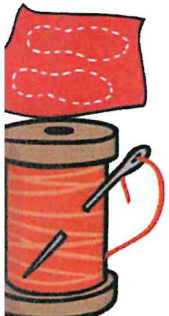

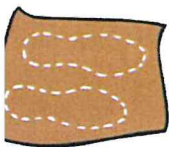

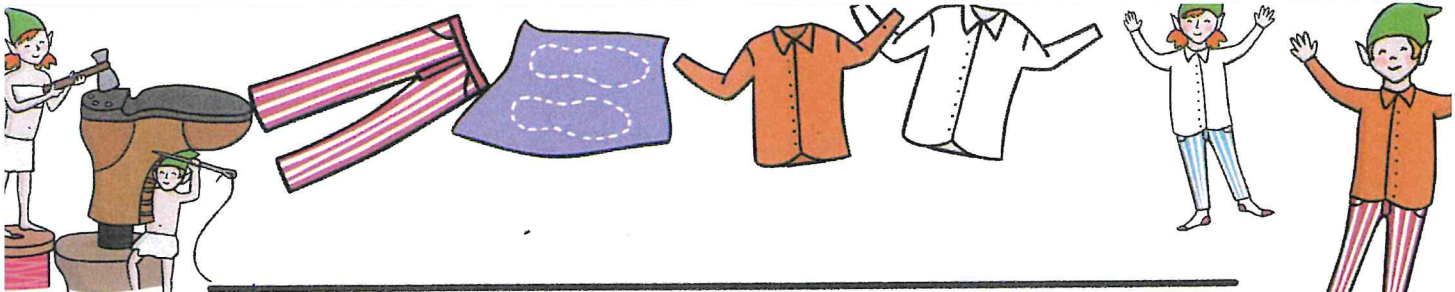

The shoe maker lived in a small and crooked house. Small, rotten house. The house had a secret passage to the shop. He was poor that was why they had not very many pairs of shoes, because they didn't have enough money to buy leather.

One day they had enough money to buy enough leather to make a pair pair of shoes. He got them ready to sue in the morning.

That's when we come in. We were just taking a stroll through the village and we saw the shoes. So we went back got our kit and got to work.

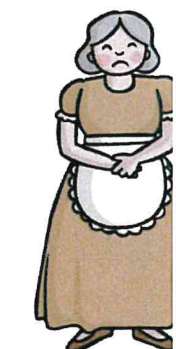

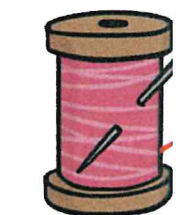

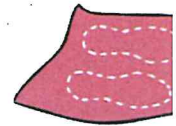

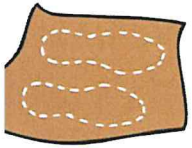

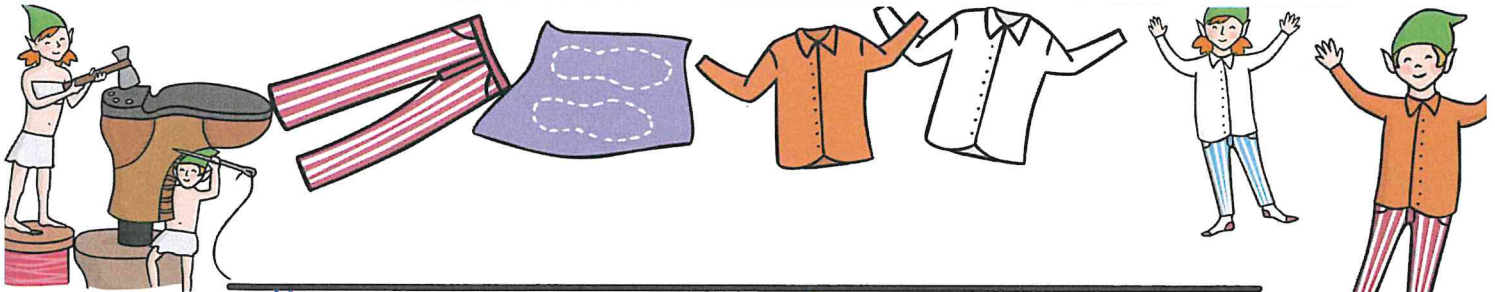

In the morning the shoe maker was about to sew when he realised the shoes ~~was~~ were done. They were hullygully sewn not a stitch out of line. Then a rich lady came in and bought the shoes. He had enough money to get leather to make two more pairs of shoes.

The same thing happened. But this time the man paid twice as much as usual. The shoe maker and his wife grew rich.

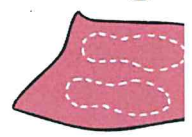

The shoe maker and his wife moved into a new and bigger house. One night the shoe maker left some leather out. He came at mid-night to see what it was.

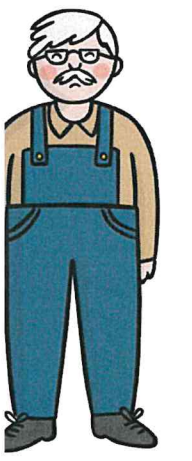

He waited until the clock struck 12. Me and my brother came in. We sewed the shoes in two minutes and left.

The shoe maker realised they wore rags and no shoes.

The shoe maker and his wife had a great idea. In thanks for the shoes they made us clothes and shoes.

They got to work straight away. His wife made clothes and socks and he made us the tinniest shoes ever.

When we arrived, they were ready to sew. We saw a pile of presents. They opened them and we put them on. And we both lived happily ever after and so did the shoe maker and his wife.

Long long ago far away there was a mysterious land. In a dark forest I am a wolf. I am not as bad as you think I am. I have grey screevy hair and I am always hungry but maybe I could eat a bunny even better a baby bunny.

One sunny day, I saw 3 got juicy pigs. They had moved into the neighbourhood I got really excited because pork is the best.

A few days later I saw the little pigs building their houses one was sticks, straw and another was bricks.

I crept to stick house and <sup>said</sup> "Come out little pig? I need have a snack otherwise I will blow your house down."

"No." said a pig. So I took a big breath and blew the straw house down.

I then quickly ran after the yummy.

pig, but he ran into his brother's house. This house is made out of sticks.

Then when I went home I had to walk past the stick house and heard 2 pigs talking. One said, "There is a big scary wolf."

A week later, I decided I would go and blow down the stick house.

I said to the pigs, "Come on out yummy pigs you belong into my tummy other wise I am going to blow down your house."

"We know it's you, and we're not dumb," said the pigs at the same time.

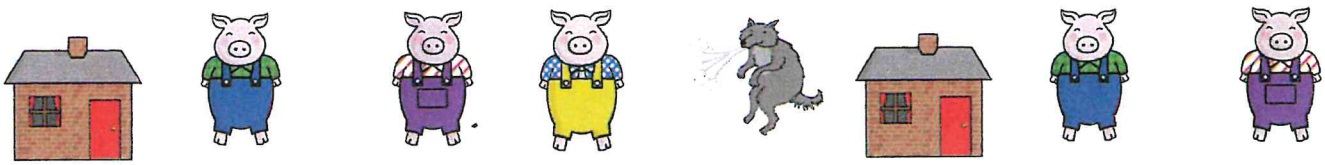

I answered back, "I don't care if your dumb or not I'm still going to blow your house down!"

So I had to run as fast as my little legs could carry me.

This is the annoying thing is that the 2 pigys ran into the 3rd pigs house.

Then I thought about going down a big chimney so I climbed the house carefully slide down but with a splash into a pot of boiling hot water. I quickly climbed out of the chimney as well shouting - "AAAAAHHHHHHH!!" and ran home well farting my bottom because there was fire on it. I said, - I am degenly never doing that again.
